in recent years studies in the eschatology and ethics of jesus have provoked an unusual interest among bible students when talking about the coming of the kingdom did jesus mean that there would be a divine intervention or a catastrophe if so were his ethical teachings intended for an emergency situation interim ethics this book provides an admirable introduction to eschatology in general dr wilder argues for an interpretation of the evidence that maintains the full significance of jesus that his eschatology far from being a liability represents a true disclosure of human destiny and that there is no contradiction between it and his ethical principles which are of permanent validity since the 1960s biblical scholars have noted a relationship between eschatology and ethics in luke acts but to date there has been no substantive study of the relationship between these themes what shall we do offers such a study lear observes and develops a logic that luke acts presents that begins with eschatological expectation and ends with a particular pattern of life especially with regard to possessions he makes the bold claim that luke has not given up on eschatological expectation the healing of the cripple acts 3 cornelius s conversion acts 10 and the shipwreck narrative acts 27 28 are figurative stories of coming eschatological salvation in this context lear demonstrates that the sharing of possessions becomes the means by which a new eschatological people is formed at the beginning of luke s gospel john the baptist says the true children of abraham will escape the coming judgment because they share their possessions the logic of this claim is worked out throughout luke s two volumes culminating in barbarian maltans becoming children of abraham because they hospitably receive the apostle paul

this study examines the influence of john calvin in ethics eschatology and education as well as those influences that affected him it examines his writings to determine if his vision made him an innovator the research searched for reforms in the areas of ethics curriculum understanding of the teaching office and universal education it also looked at philosophy economics and labor a belief in the after life and end times was an ethical motivation for calvin and education was a means by which the people that he worked with and wrote to could understand how they should live and why they should live like that thus there is an important connection among ethics eschatology and education all people were to work to their potential at their job because in doing their job they would honor god teachers were especially important those who taught would affect the quality of education calvin worked to provide teacher training and support he believed that all occupations could be a special calling from god and education was a means to prepare the young person for his or her calling schools existed in geneva before calvin arrived in 1536 however they did not function in the way that calvin would have liked calvin provided the elementary students with a needed text when he prepared a catechism the students had written material that they could read and study and a systematic presentation of the basic doctrines of the christian faith calvin also wanted more appropriate facilities in which the students could learn although his organization of the schools improved the atmosphere for learning the building of the academy was his dream and became his major educational achievement in the city of geneva because 16th century students needed to be prepared for the new world there was a need for curriculum change the students were required to read many of the prominent greek and roman authors in the ancient languages but the student learned theology hebrew poetry dialectic and rhetoric physics and mathematics as well calvin wished to graduate a well rounded scholar who could take his or her place in society in this way the citizens of geneva and all those of the reformed belief would be better prepared for life on earth and the after life a major concern for christian theology is the tension created by the already and not yet aspects of christian eschatology this study seeks to characterize the nature of that tension as it has been interpreted in the biblical materials and in selected representatives of the history of christian theology the study then suggests the implications of eschatological tension for a christian approach to a public ethic i e an ethic for a pluralistic natural community the eschatological and dualistic symbolism of the early christians has misled us into thinking that the gospel in its classic period has no concern with what we call social change writes wilder saint paul s apparently conservative social views must be understood in light of his expectation of christ s imminent return his is an emergency ethic but going beyond paul s explicit social teachings to his kerygmatic affirmations we see that the principalities and powers over which christ has triumphed also refer to the corrupted structures of society the social ethical significance of the kerygma becomes discernible as soon as we learn to interpret the mythological expressions of the new testament in historical terms this book develops a thorough account of the sphere of human moral action in sustained dialogue with jürgen moltmann by examining god s role as promise giver particularly in the christian understanding of resurrection this work describes the occupancy of both history and space in moral terms this leads to an understanding of jesus description of the kingdom of god to feature prominently in describing both the possibility and content of human moral action by offering an account of each of the main doctrines found in moltmann s corpus the role of the future the trinity the holy spirit and anthropology this book locates how each contributes to the understanding of ethics from a christian perspective and subsequently applies these findings to the contemporary issue of poverty and global economics under the bed of heaven is a work of christian ethics that examines how eschatology might reshape concepts of sexual morality with the rise of institutional christianity in the roman empire christian attitudes about sexual desire and activity were soon controlled by doctrines of virginity and celibacy or monogamous marriage for the sake of procreation these moral theologies aligned with a certain track of christian eschatology which imagined the future resurrection of the body but without any corresponding sexual desires as a result traditional christianity developed a preference for celibacy on earth to match the loss of sexual desire and activity in heaven making marriage and monogamy temporal goods only in recent years a few scholars of religion have challenged whether this vision of a sexless heaven is valid however they have not fully developed a vision of sex in heaven that might function to critique and reform christian sexual ethics on earth richard w mccarty explores scripture church teachings and different models of eschatology to offer a bold new conception of christian sexual ethics that is inclusive of lgbtq and heterosexual people both in and outside of monogamous configurations the role of the spirit in the eschatological ethics of revelation was a topic that has given me great joy to learn the book of revelation the role of the spirit eschatological and ethics in this book i have discovered the plan of salvation which was laid before the foundation of the world in a very clear manner god the master of the universe revealed to john the final story of this worlds history at the isles of patmos the trinity is well explained and even their duties as the godhead god the father god the son and god the holy ghost of which my dissertation is looking at the office or the role of the spirit in the second coming of christ from genesis to malachi it is god the father who revealed himself to mankind and from matthew to acts 1 8 it is god the son who came in person to reveal god the father and from acts 1 9 to revelation it is god the holy spirit who will teach us all that god the son could not finish teaching us the script is divided into five chapters which are the orientation into the book of revelation the theology and the ethics of the book revelation the eschatology ethics in revelation the holy spirit in revelation and the role of the spirit and eschatology ethics of revelation which is the theme of this script then we have the conclusion of the script matthew levering offers a biblical and thomistic portrait of the cardinal virtue of temperance and its allied virtues in dialogue with an ecumenical range of theologians and scholars in aquinas s eschatological ethics and the virtue of temperance levering argues that catholic ethics make sense only in light of the biblical worldview that jesus has inaugurated the kingdom of god by pouring out his spirit jesus has made it possible for us to know and obey god s law for human flourishing as individuals and communities he has reoriented our lives toward the goal of beatific communion with him in charity which affects the exercise of the moral virtues that pertain to human flourishing without the context of the inaugurated kingdom catholic ethics as traditionally conceived will seem like an effort to find a middle ground between legalistic rigorism and relativistic laxism which is especially the case with the virtue of temperance the focus of levering s book after an opening chapter on the eschatological biblical character of catholic ethics the ensuing chapters engage aquinas s theology of temperance in the summa theologiae which identifies and examines a number of virtues associated with temperance levering demonstrates that the theology of temperance is profoundly biblical and that aquinas s theology of temperance relies for its intelligibility upon christ s inauguration of the kingdom of god as the graced fulfillment of our created nature the book develops new vistas for scholars and students interested in moral theology edited by joel b green scot mcknight and i howard marshall this reference work encompasses everything relating to jesus and the gospels inter disciplinary studies are emerging rapidly to meet the insistent demands of the modern age biblical interpretation is itself inter disciplinary drawing together the biblical traditions and others to address the problem of interpreting texts christian ethics is also multi disciplinary and thus no stranger to this new ethos to bring these two areas together is a potentially creative undertaking it comes at a time when much attention is being paid to reading texts and the interpretive tradition the author s principal aim is to read the bible in the context of moral concern attention is paid to the liberal quest and to eschatology and ethics each marking a distinct epoch in the relationship of bible and ethics before the post critical age is studied under the rubric participation in meaning the final section deals with ethics and historical reading and with ethics and contemporary reading the book concludes with a discussion of selected practical topics this incisive study concerns the ways in which theological claims about creation s original and final perfection shape social ethics schuurman argues that prominent 20th century theologians emil brunner and jurgen moltmann wrongly envision the eschaton as radically discontinuous with creation and that this discontinuity coheres with serious inadequacies in their social ethics his thesis is that continuity between creation and eschaton is necessary if christian social ethics is to avoid dualistic understandings of love and justice personal and impersonal values church and world revolutionism and conservatism schuurman establishes theological groundwork for a social ethic that calls for continuous transformation of social institutions and structures in the wake of the economic crisis few questions are more pressing than those around the ethics of finance and economics theology and economic ethics seeks to expand the self critical resources of contemporary theological economic ethics by bringing the method of a pre modern thinker martin luther 1483 1546 into interaction with that of a modern contribution to social ethics the swiss theologian arthur rich 1910 92 the work is undertaken through a close engagement with a selected publication of luther his 1519 20 großer sermon von dem wucher and of rich his masterwork wirtschaftsethik published in two volumes in 1984 and 1990 respectively it is the first substantial treatment in english of rich s magnum opus sean doherty introduces luther s sermon on usury situates it in its context then provides a commentary on this work discussing how luther brings key theological motifs to bear on a particular economic question the study proceeds with a sketch of arthur rich s life and work and presents rich s method as set out in wirtschaftsethik doherty illuminates rich s understanding of ethics his approach to scripture and his adoption of the thought of max weber and john rawls bringing insights from the study of luther to bear in an analysis of rich s method doherty questions some of rich s assumptions and notes ways in which a more self critical approach could have made his project more successful finally the book makes tentative suggestions as to the wider applicability of these findings for a christian approach to economic ethics
